

U. S. to Try to Upset GI Ruling; Japs in Warning

By CARL R. BAUMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government moved with all speed today in an effort to upset a court ruling favoring U. S. authorities on turning over GI William S. Girard to Japan for trial on manslaughter charges.

All indications pointed to a direct appeal to the Supreme Court, with hopes for a final decision before the court ends its present term next Monday.

The final decision on whether to go directly to the Supreme Court rather than going through the U. S. Court of Appeals here rested with Solicitor General J. Lee Rankin. His decision is expected today.

Appeal machinery was set in motion within an hour after U. S. Dist. Judge Joseph C. McGarraghy handed down his decision in favor of Girard yesterday afternoon.

This came in the form of a formal notice of appeal filed in District Court.

Girard's attorneys and supporters were jubilant at McGarraghy's decision. The judge ruled that to surrender the 21-year-old soldier to the Japanese would violate his constitutional rights.

The State and Defense departments had decided some time ago that Girard, a specialist third class from Ottawa, Ill., should be tried by Japanese courts on charges that he fatally shot a Japanese woman who was scavenging for scrap metal on a firing range in Japan.

Girard, who was guarding equipment on the range, has said the shooting was accidental. The woman, Mrs. Naka Sakai, was killed by an empty cartridge casing fired from a grenade launcher. Girard now is in Army custody at Camp Whittington, about 60 miles from Tokyo.

At the Pentagon, a spokesman said the Defense Department will take no action while the case is being appealed. The State Department refused comment. The incident was blown up into an international storm, and the case reached its latest stage as Japanese Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi was heading for a series of talks with high U. S. officials in Washington. Kishi was due here today.

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese officials warned today an American court decision blocking a Japanese trial for William S. Girard would menace the U. S.-Japan Mutual Security Treaty unless the U. S. Supreme Court upsets the ruling.

Justice Minister Umekiichi Nakamura said the District Court ruling was "not binding" and Japan would go ahead with Girard's trial as planned.

Yuzo Kawachi, the judge assigned to preside over the trial said, "The trial will open about the

Many Flee From Haiti Violence

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Hundreds of workers and peasants have fled this seething capital city in fear that fresh violence may erupt.

Loaded with personal belongings, they began streaming out yesterday as the ruling military junta started jailing political partisans on a wide scale.

Those fleeing included supporters of both presidential candidates Louis Dejoie and his arch rival, ousted Provisional President Daniel Fignole.

Dejoie himself was in hiding. Six of his top advisers and scores of his followers were among those arrested.

The military rulers apparently concentrated on Dejoie's backers to keep them from again organizing general strikes. Most business firms in the capital followed orders from Dejoie in the recurrent strikes staged during the political turmoil that has unsettled six governments since December.

The ruling junta has outlawed strikes. Troops and police patrolled the streets forcing stores and shops to remain open.

Bloc Leaders Delayed Rights Vote Months

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Southern leaders in the losing fight against the Civil Rights bill in the House, agreed today that the South had at least been successful in delaying House passage of the measure for several months.

"We succeeded in holding it back for six months and there is no reason to feel downcast," said Rep. Willis (D-La.). "The law is not on the statute books yet, by any means."

And Rep. Colmer (D-Miss.) said that while the final outcome in the House was disappointing to him, the Southerners had achieved the goal of delaying the measure to the point where a filibuster in the Senate might block action this year.

Colmer and Willis were leaders of the Southern bloc which maneuvered to delay, amend or kill the bill.

Both agreed that a week ago the Southerners appeared to be on the verge of winning a fight to insert a jury trial amendment into the bill, but that "pressure" caused many Republicans and some Democrats to change their positions.

"The last desperate efforts of the opposition to duck being put on record on the jury trial amendment indicates they were not proud of what they were doing," said Willis. "They didn't want to stand up and be counted."

Colmer said the size of the final vote was "disappointing" but that "it emphasized the power of organized pressure groups."

The CIO, the NAACP and the White House were responsible for the tremendous vote against the jury trial motion," Colmer continued.

"It is hard to see one's colleagues vote to deny rights to people of one section that they are so enthusiastic to see be received by minority groups."

"As one who has long felt that the South's unhappy position has been brought about by permitting itself to be taken for granted, I can now see no hope for the South unless it also becomes an organized minority group."

If the South would become such an organized minority, Colmer said, it could bargain with leaders of either party.

In yesterday's two roll call votes on the bill, the 20 representatives from Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas were on hand and solidly supported the Southern position. First they voted for the motion to recommit with instructions for a jury trial amendment. Upon failure of that motion, all 20 then voted against passage of the bill.

Relief From Cold Promised East, Midwest

By United Press

Record high temperatures continued to bake both coasts today, but relief for the East was on the way from a cold front that dropped temperatures in the Mid West by as much as 30 degrees.

The mercury bubbled into the 90-degree plus range again yesterday over most of the eastern third of the nation, climbing to 97 in Philadelphia for a third straight day of record heat in that city.

In the West, readings soared to a record 104 degrees in Los Angeles for the hottest day there since Sept. 1, 1955. The heat was blamed for a rash of brush fires, one of which destroyed nearly 2,000 acres at Lake Elsinore and another at Griffith Park in Hollywood.

The combination of hot weather and floods in the northern Midwest and Plains states boosted the toll of weather-caused deaths beyond the 150 mark since last week-end.

The United Press counted at least 115 persons drowned in trying to escape the heat. In addition, at least 30 persons were killed in floods, eight died from lightning and two from heat prostration to raise the number of weather deaths to at least 155.

Sections of the upstate New York vacation region claimed at least 15 lives.

A flood tragedy at Munier, Kan., killed two Roman Catholic priests, and at least three persons were dead and two were missing in South Dakota floods. Another man drowned in a Marshall, Minn., flood.

Floodwaters continued to plague sections of Kansas and South Dakota in the wake of torrential rains.

At Beloit, Kan., the Solomon river spilled from its banks and forced evacuation of families in low lying areas. Officials predicted the river would crest at 35 feet today, about four feet below the crest reached there during the great flood of 1951.

Sections of Sioux Falls, S.D., inundated last night when the Bix Sioux river overflowed its banks in the city.

Other hot records yesterday included 93 at Burlington, Vt., the highest June temperature ever recorded there; 100 at Elmira, N.Y.; 97 at Albany, and 95 at Syracuse, N.Y.; 94 at Hartford, Conn.; 96 at Washington, D. C. for the sixth straight day of 90-degree readings in the nation's capital, and 100 at Sacramento, Calif.

In Chicago, temperatures dropped nearly 30 degrees as cool northern winds brought an early morning low of 63 degrees to the city. Cooler weather also was expected.

Japs Sentence U. S. Soldier to 15 Years

OTSU, Japan (AP) — The Japanese District Court today sentenced an American soldier to 15 years imprisonment for robbing and murdering a Buddhist priest.

The soldier, identified as Pvt. Randall B. Boyles, 24, of Kenton, Del., was convicted of assaulting the priest last December, robbing him and tossing his unconscious body into Lake Biwa, where he drowned.

The prosecution demanded a light sentence. Judge Toshio Yanagida said he imposed a lighter sentence because Boyles had displayed a "penitent attitude" and presented $300 in sympathy money to the priest's widow. The army paid her $3,333.

Soviet Subs in Egypt Alarm Israel

JERUSALEM (AP) — News that three Soviet-built submarines have joined the Egyptian fleet caused new alarm today among Israeli officials. They are believed to be Egypt's first undersea craft, and Israel has none.

Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion met with his Cabinet in a special session which lasted until early this morning. A communiqué said only that security matters were discussed, but it was obvious that the Egyptian-Soviet submarine deal was high on the agenda.

Israeli officials feared the undersea craft would be used against Israeli shipping, particularly in the disputed Gulf of Aqaba leading to the southern Israeli port of Eilat. Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Jordan claim the gulf is Arab territorial water.

Since the Israeli invasion last fall Egypt has had no effective way to interfere with shipping to and from Eilat. Israeli troops occupied and destroyed Egypt's Sinai Desert gun position over to the U. N. Emergency Force. Egypt has been wary of sending her warships against Israeli shipping since the one surface action of the invasion ended with the damaging and capture of an Egyptian frigate.

Egyptian purchase of the three Russian subs was confirmed last night by Egypt's semi-official Middle East News Agency, which said they had joined the Egyptian fleet and were in Egyptian waters.

The British admiralty reported the passage of the subs through the English Channel near two weeks ago. It said one was a small coastal type and two were long-range boats.

Cotton Men to Meet Here Friday Night

To consider and to plan action for assistance through existing farm programs, a meeting of Hempsstead County cotton producers will be held Friday night, June 21, at 8:00 in the Hempsstead County Courthouse, announced N. B. Coleman, president of Hempsstead County Farm Bureau today. All cotton producers and other interested individuals are urged to be in attendance.

Hempsstead County livestock owners are eligible for Federal disaster assistance through a feed and grain program according to information received from Congressman Owen Harris. More details regarding the assistance is expected to be available at the Friday night meeting, stated Mr. Coleman.

Suggest Mars Has Water and Oxygen

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Science Reporter

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP) — Astronomers preparing for the age of space travel are probing for water and oxygen in Mars.

The search has barely started and has yielded little in the way of results. But two researchers today expressed optimism that these two life-giving elements can be found on the red planet.

The only way of finding these elements on a planet 60 million or more miles away is by spectrography. This technique detects chemical elements by the wave length of the light they produce when lit by the sun or some other strong source of light.

A possibly way of finding oxygen on the planet with a spectrograph was suggested to the International Mars Committee and the Astronomical Society of the Pacific by Dr. Robert S. Richardson of M. L. Wilson and Palomar observatories in California.

It could be done by mounting the instrument on a rocket and sending it up above the earth's atmosphere, Dr. Richardson said. This would eliminate the problem of separating earthy oxygen and Mars oxygen in spectrograph recordings made at the earth's surface, he reported.

Dr. Audouin Dollfus of Meudon Observatory in Paris, France, said spectroscopy also offers a possible way of finding water on Mars. He suggested a balloon-borne spectrometer to get the instrument above the water vapor of the earth's atmosphere for a direct look at the atmosphere of the red planet. Mars is upped by some water but the amount is not known.

100,000 Acres on Arkansas Suffered

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — More than 100,000 acres of Arkansas farm land were affected by the recent Arkansas River flood, the Agricultural Extension Service said today.

The service said that the loss to farmers ran into the "millions of dollars" but added that no specific estimate could be made.

The estimate of 100,000 acres "affected" included land on which crops were damaged but not destroyed.

The Extension Service gave the following county-by-county survey of the damage:

Johnson County — some 11,520 acres were under water, including 7,000 acres in growing crops such as wheat, oats, alfalfa, vegetables, cotton and soybeans. Most of the wheat and cotton was planted on cotton land and was destroyed by the flood and heavy rains. County Agent G. Glen Pyle estimated the loss at $350,000.

Italy's Political Crisis Is Worse

ROME (AP) — Italy's political crisis took a new turn for the worse today as Senate President Cesare Merzagora announced he could not form a government.

President Giovanni Gronchi, on Saturday had asked Merzagora, a 58-year-old former banker and politician, to explore the possibility of forming a government. Until his sudden announcement today, it appeared he was well on his way toward putting together a coalition.

Millwood Decision Will Come Within Two Weeks

The Millwood Dam project, with committee approval by both senate and house, is expected to come to the floor of congress for a final vote within the next two weeks. This information was given to Hope Kiwanis Club Tuesday in a speech delivered by Roy Matthias, executive vice-president of the Red River Valley Association of Shreveport.

The Millwood project, along with seven smaller upstream dams, will be voted upon as a single bill which has the support of Cliff Davis, Tennessee congressman and chairman of the sub-committee on flood control.

Congressman Davis addressed the Millwood breakfast meeting in Shreveport in April this year, and later commented that he had never seen as much interest as that demonstrated by supporters of this project.

Mr. Matthias, in his speech Tuesday, reviewed the long 11-year fight for Millwood with its many controversies, and concluded by saying that the people of the Red River Valley can never have complete protection of life and property until Millwood and the other dams are built. He recalled the disastrous 1945 flood, the biggest ever in the Red River Valley, and pointed out that most of the rainfall at that time fell below Denison dam.

"We have had floods in the Valley in 1957," but this time the great portion of the heaviest rainfall was above Denison dam, and you can imagine the great toll in human life and property if the flood floods had struck both areas at the same time," he pointed out.

Mr. Matthias said that the Red River Valley was one of the last major regions that is yet undeveloped in water resources, but with congressional and presidential approval, he pledged it as a frontier being transformed into thriving communities.

He also said that if the bill meets with a presidential veto, that possibly great pressure would be built up to construct Millwood in its original form as authorized in 1946 — instead of its present modified status of 150,000 acre feet which is 25 percent less water storage than the 1945 authorization.

He praised citizens of Hope and all Southwest Arkansas for the great interest shown and urged continued cooperation in the matter. Guests of the club were: Henry O'Neal of Shreveport; C. V. Nunn, Jr.; C. C. Spraggins; Robert LaGrone, Lloyd Spencer, James Barton, B. N. Holt and George Peck.

Following the meeting, the club directors nominated Perry Moses as vice-president and Arch Wyllie as a new director. Last week, J. S. Draper became president of the club, succeeding Harrell C. Hall, resigned.

Highway Bypass Is Discussed

FORT SMITH (AP) — A proposed 12 1/2 million dollar bypass around Fort Smith and Van Buren to be built under the federal interstate highway program was discussed with civic leaders from the two cities at a special meeting of the State Highway Commission here yesterday.

The 8.3 mile stretch of divided four lane highway would extend from the planned new interstate route north of Van Buren southward to connect with Highway 22.

Ninety per cent of the cost would be paid out of federal funds.

Six traffic interchanges and a new bridge across the Arkansas River are included in the plan.

Besides providing a bypass route for drivers not wanting to stop at Fort Smith or Van Buren, the spur would give access to the new interstate route from Fort Smith and Fort Chaffee.

NOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas Pharmaceutical Association has voted to set up a committee to check drug advertising. Any advertising the committee considered objectionable would be reported to the Federal Trade Commission.

Commission Made Permanent by Council

Hope City Council last night passed an ordinance setting up a permanent Commission to operate the municipal Water and Light Plant.

B. W. Edwards was appointed to a 10-year term; Lloyd Spencer 8 years; Albert Graves 6 years; Robert LaGrone four years and Roy Anderson two years.

The appointees have been operating the local plant for the past year as a temporary commission. An act passed by the last Legislature allowed the City of Hope to make the commission permanent.

The group opened bids for a new police car and the bid of Hope Auto Co. was accepted.

In other action the Council hired two men, H. B. Sanford to work in the Street Department and a second man to be selected to work in the Health Department. The new employees are replacements for two retiring workers.

Several other routine matters were discussed but no action taken.

Gunmen Rob Opera Star of $250,000

From Our Wire Service
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Three gunmen last night invaded the home of opera star, Lauritz Melchior and robbed him of furs, cash and jewelry he said were worth almost $250,000.

The men fled in an old sedan after binding Melchior, his wife Kleinhene and two employees.

The Danish-born singer said he was watching television in his hill-top home on Mulholland Drive when the three tall men, wearing masks and armed with .45-caliber pistols, forced their way in.

Melchior, 67, told newsmen later: "If only I'd gotten my gun in time."

Melchior broke loose from his bonds in less than a minute. He told police he grabbed a rifle and ammunition from his cellar and ran to the street—but didn't get there in time to get a shot at the fleeing bandits.

He listed the losses at $500 in cash, $150,000 in jewelry and four fur coats, two of them sable. Mrs. Melchior estimated value of the coats at close to $100,000.

Part of the loot included $110,000 in crown jewels once belonging to Queen Anastasia, mother of the present King Frederick IX of Denmark.

"This is a holdup," one of the men told Melchior. He waved a gun at him and forced him to open a wall safe. The others, two of whom wore nylon stocking masks, took cash, jewelry and

Ike Says Soviet Plan to Disarm Hopeful Sign

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today Russia's latest disarmament proposals are a hopeful sign deserving of the most earnest and sympathetic study.

Eisenhower told a news conference he is not suggesting that the United States should agree to any unlimited and unconditional suspension of atomic weapons tests.

Both the United States and Russia would have to know exactly what was going on under any suspension program, Eisenhower said.

His remarks were a comment on the Soviet Union's recent proposal for an internationally supervised ban to atomic weapons tests.

O the same subject, Eisenhower said forcefully that Harold E. Stassen, his disarmament adviser, was not reprimanded when he returned from London talks briefly last week.

There was some feeling, Eisenhower said, that Stassen had been rushing ahead too fast. But he added he certainly does not feel Stassen's usefulness has been ruined.

Disarmament is a very complex, delicate matter, Eisenhower said, and it is necessary to call negotiators home sometimes for consultation.

He added that was the case when Stassen was asked to return from London.

In response to a question, Eisenhower said he would be willing to have the United States enter into a temporary agreement for efforts are continued to achieve a "package" disarmament pact covering much more ground.

In fact, he said, he would be delighted if such a limited agreement could be reached pending achievement of a package pact.

But Eisenhower said he did not mean to imply this country ever would agree to an unlimited and unconditional short-term suspension of nuclear tests.

This was Eisenhower's first news conference since he was stricken with a stomach upset June 8-10. He joked about the illness at one point and appeared to be in the best of spirits.

The President also discussed the recent series of decisions dealing with individual rights are being studied carefully by the Justice Department, he said, to determine whether there should be any further tests of the laws involved.

Eisenhower had been asked whether he thought the court had gone too far in protecting individual rights, at the expense of the law enforcement procedures and the investigative functions of Congress.

The President said he would not care to deal with those specific points. He said that, like all laws, he has some convictions but that he would not go into them.

GIRARD — Without specific mention of a District Court ruling yesterday barring the government from turning GI William S. Girard over to the Japanese for trial, Eisenhower said he would not care to discuss the case at this time.

It caused some possible damage to Girard.

Eisenhower had been told by a reporter that he understood there was some discussion of the case last week at a White House breakfast with Republican House members.

The reporter did not mention yesterday's court ruling.

RIGHTS — Eisenhower said he has been sadly disappointed because some people feel the administration's civil rights program would disturb their own rights. He added he sees no cause for such concern.

The administration bill passed yesterday by the House was de-

Will Contested by Brother of Army Officer

HOT SPRINGS, Ark.—A brother who was bequeathed $500 has filed a suit contesting disposition of the estate of the late Brig. Gen. Raymond Franklin Metcalfe, retired army medical officer.

Gen. Metcalfe's will left bulk of the estate to a foster daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Metcalfe Nichol, wife of Col. William Nichol, formerly at Army-Navy General Hospital here and now stationed at San Antonio, Tex.

In the court suit, Harry V. Metcalfe of Seattle, Wash., contended that the will filed here was not actually the "last will and testament" of Gen. Metcalfe and that at the time he signed it the general did not possess sufficient mental capacity to dispose of his estate by will or otherwise.

The Seattle resident charged that his brother was unduly influenced by Col. and Mrs. Nichol. Mrs. Nichol had been Gen. Metcalfe's guardian since 1951.

Gen. Metcalfe was a former commanding officer of Walter Reed Hospital at Washington D. C. and in World War II was chief surgeon for all military medical installations on the West Coast.

He retired in 1946 after 44 years' service. He died here May 8.

students wear uniforms to avoid social distinctions.

Every student—boy or girl—studies four days a week, spends two days at work to earn his room and board. Some 10 per cent also work at the school during the summer to earn their tuition for the following year. All students attend religious services every Sunday.

The schools operate their own dairy farm, grow their own produce, market linum from their forest. Students have constructed many of the 100 buildings on the campus, even turning out the bricks themselves.

"The students also provide most of their own entertainment," said Dr. Bertrand. "We stress these things—the dignity of work, Christian living, and the importance of beauty in daily life."

This concept might sound a little stuffy to many a student who regards college as a long lark at parental expense. But some 10,000 students over the last century have proved the worth of the Berry formula.

The schools have turned out hundreds of teachers, ministers, farm experts, industrial technicians. Several graduates have become legislators and lawyers. One is a college president, another a magazine editor, a third vice president of a major Manhattan bank.

"Our graduates don't have any trouble getting located," said Dr. Bertrand, smiling. "Having had a good work background, they aren't afraid to tackle a new job just because it's hard."

Dr. Bertrand, who resigned as dean of the University of Nevada's college of agriculture, to take up his present post, says one of the pleasantest things about it is that he rarely has a disciplinary problem.

"A student who is getting his education by the sweat of his own brow knows the value of it. He isn't in a hurry to get into trouble."

aligned with the thought of conciliation and moderation, not persecution of anyone, Eisenhower said.

His remarks were prompted by a reporter's question as to whether Eisenhower intended to advise Senate Republicans to fight, if necessary to break an expected Senate filibuster against the civil rights measure.

He replied he had not discussed that matter with the GOP Senate leaders. Then he said that, while he normally does not comment on such matters, he did want to make it clear that he thinks the administration's civil rights program is moderate.

KISHI — Nailing that Japan's Prime Minister "Nobusuke Kishi was arriving at the White House later in the day for a series of conferences. Eisenhower said both he and Secretary of State Dulles are looking forward to these negotiations.

DOCUMENTS — Eisenhower defended the refusal of Gordon Gray, chief of the Office of Defense Mobilization, to turn over to a congressional committee yesterday certain documents with a bearing on the fast tax write-off granted to the Idaho Power Co.

Eisenhower said on that matter, he was following the practice of every president since Washington.

FARM — Asked whether there is anything to report that he is planning to send a new farm program to Congress next year, Eisenhower replied that every week some new presentation is made at Cabinet meetings for study.

The 1957 Legislature authorized the commission and appropriated $250,000 to acquire the battlefield property, which will be converted into a national park by Congressional directive.

"I was hurt a little by being tied up, but that was all," his wife said. "It was a terrible experience—reading and listening to music which suddenly some people come into the room and say, 'this is a holdup.' They made us lie on our stomachs and tied us up."

"I suppose they were courteous because they didn't kill us or at least we don't have any broken bones."

The handouts put the cash and jewelry in one of Melchior's blue stockings and left in their car. Melchior said they locked several doors behind them.

The Melchiors had been visited earlier in the evening by several friends before the invasion by the gunmen who apparently carried .45 caliber automatics.

He acknowledged, however, that he didn't know what would happen if Japan orders Girard produced for trial while U. S. Army authorities are under orders to hold the 21-year-old soldier from Ollawa, Ill., for trial by an Army court-martial.

Supreme Court sources pointed out that if he fails to appear at the first court session, the trial cannot open. Girard now is in Army custody, confined to Camp Whittington, north of Tokyo.

Fears that Judge Joseph C. McGarragh's injunction would damage relations between the two countries were expressed by Atty. Gen. Tosa Sato and Minoru Tada, spokesman for the Justice Ministry.

But both voiced confidence the U. S. government will do all it can to let a Japanese court try Girard. The Washington government already has filed notice of appeal to the high court.

Eight Die in Collision of Oil Tankers

BREST, France—Two big oil tankers collided and burst into flames in darkness and fog off the oily sea but more than 80 were rescued.

It was a ticklish job for rescue vessels picking their way gingerly through fog and fearful of explosions from the burning ships. But they managed to pick up the surviving crewmen, including 10 who were seriously hurt. Late this afternoon none was reported missing.

The French Naval Radio Station identified the vessels as the 15,000-ton taker Stony Point sailing under Liberian papers, and the 19,000-ton Greek tanker Ioannis. But the Greek ship was also reported to be a freighter named Ioannis or Ionis.

Victory Carriers Inc., operating agents in New York for the Stony Point, said the taker was loaded with oil en route from Sidon, Lebanon, to Antwerp and carried a crew of 40.

All reports of the disaster, some 20 miles off the tip of the Brittany peninsula, came by ship's wireless from rescue craft. The fog was so thick off the coast that aircraft couldn't locate the burning ships.

Says Army Can't Have Fixed Budget

FT. LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, said today it will be "very difficult" for the Army to live within a fixed spending budget of about the current level of 9½ billion dollars yearly.

He said all of the military services now are required to meet their military needs under such fixed ceilings that together may not exceed the 38-billion-dollar total established for the fiscal year starting July 1.

How Texas Eastern helps keep these teeth on edge

You'll find a well-tempered Disston saw always has its teeth on edge—always eager and able to cut with ease—thanks, in part, to Texas Eastern.

Texas Eastern transports natural gas from the Southwest via pipeline for use in the Philadelphia plant of the Henry Disston Division, H. K. Porter Company. Here, gas is used in an infinite variety of processes for tempering, hardening and rust-proofing steel for saw blades. Because the blades have to be processed at temperatures anywhere from exactly 250° to exactly 2500°F., natural gas is exactly the right fuel. Gas heat can be precisely controlled and holds temperature better.

From a collection of 1958 blouses ensembles by Hubert de Givenchy come these new ideas for blouse wear. Our girl starts (left) with a cool blouse-and-skirt in black-and-white star printed batiste of daron and cotton. Blouse has surplice effect with side closing, is worn with gently shirred and stiffened skirt. Pockets of skirt are banded in black shirring. The same blouse (center) takes on a different look when it's worn with skirt that has easy fullness at the neckline and a deep hem. Fabric is mixture of daron and flax. Covered-up look (right) comes with blouse of soft cut with sloping shoulders and deep cuffs. It's done in sunny orange poplin of daron and cotton, is worn with tapered slacks of creamy poplin with fine green striping in the same fabric blend. Both wash and drip-dry back to smoothness. All three blouses offer a costume look.

Summer separates that take a minimum of care are these by Givenchy in a blend of daron-and-cotton. White batiste off the shoulder blouse with lantern sleeves is worn with ballooning harem skirt. Stripes are black on pale blue chambray.—By GAIL DUGAS, NEA Women's Editor.

DOROTHY DIX

Pig-Headed Pa Opposes College For Bright Boy

Dear Dorothy Dix: I married my present husband when my three children were 12, 16 and 18. He's a hardworking man, has built up a good business for himself and is a very, very careful spender. My two girls are now self-supporting. I've worked, too, and we four haven't cost my husband a cent.

My son graduates from high school next week and wants to go to college. He's a brilliant boy, definitely college material, and his teachers all urge that he go for professional training.

However, since my husband has been successful in business without college, he doesn't believe in "such nonsense." He forbids the boy to make plans for college. Instead he wants to "take him on as an unpaid apprentice in his own business."

ANNABELLE

Dear Annabelle: A man with a set prejudice — particularly if he's wrong — can rarely be changed. Your son might as well make up his mind that anything he accomplishes will be on his own. There are scholarships, grants, loans and employment possibilities to care for deserving students. Have him apply to a few colleges outlining the entire story and asking what aid they can give him. There are several books, some of them very reasonable, that offer more details than I can supply here. Send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the Scholarship list. Whatever you do, don't let an obstinate stepfather spoil the boy's future.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My teen-age daughter wears two or three bouffant slips — under a full skirt and her friends inform me this is quite the thing. I agree that it would be all right for dances or parties but can't see it for ordinary wear.

WORRIED PARENT

Dear worried parents: Personally, I think full skirts with petticoats are one of the prettiest fashions our young have come up with. When you consider some of the gashly garb that has enjoyed popularity, don't you agree?

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have been going out with a wonderful boy for several weeks. He just told me he couldn't go with me any more because he has a secret problem. Should I wait for him to come back? — MYRA

Police Seek Youths Involved in Wreck

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Police searched today for one of three teenage North Little Rock boys who overturned a stolen car here last night in a high-speed chase with officers.

One of the youths was injured in the wreck and taken to a hospital in serious condition. The other two in the car escaped on foot, but a mother of one of them brought her son to police headquarters today to face charges.

The names of the youths, all 16 or under, were not released. The car was reported stolen Thursday in Arkadelphia.

Police said they stopped the car last night when the driver made an illegal left turn. The boys were ordered to the police station, but instead drove off a high speed.

The car hit a railroad switch and overturned, throwing one of the youths out of the car. Police stopped to give first aid, and did not chase the two boys who fled on foot.

Extra School Day Worth a Million

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UP)—San Juan Union School District is off its million-dollar hook today and its 4,300 students are on summer vacation at last.

Most of the students showed up for school yesterday along with teachers and employees for the one day needed to make the 175 minimum for state aid amounting to a million dollars.

Supt. William T. Mooney had a "hunch" late last week, counted school days during the year and came up with a total of 174 through last Friday, which was the scheduled final day of the semester.

"Everyone took it wonderfully," Mooney said.

It makes up 75 percent of Bolivia's exports today. The beautiful production of tin came alone in the 1870's when Bolivia's silver production began fading away.

Bakers' Boss Has Chance to Answer Charge

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (UP)—James G. Cross said today he expects to win vindication and cash out his five-year term as president of the Bakers Union "unless the good Lord disposes of me first."

He made the statement in an interview as he awaited a call to go on the witness stand before the Senate Rackets investigating Committee.

The committee, which was primed with questions about charges that Cross "beat" women, "misused" union funds, and "okayed" substandard wage contracts with "baking interests" that allegedly "loaned" him $100,000.

A long legal dispute between the committee and the union's general counsel, Herman W. Cooper, used up the entire morning session at which Cross had been expected to testify.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) said he expected to call Cross to the witness stand when the hearing resumed.

WASHINGTON (UP)—Bakers Union boss James G. Cross gets a chance today to reply to charges that he beat women, "misused" union funds and "okayed" substandard wage contracts with "baking interests" that allegedly "loaned" him $100,000.

Cross, international president of the union, pledged yesterday to answer every "pertinent" question without invoking the Fifth Amendment at a Senate Rackets Committee hearing.

The committee gave the promise in exchange for the right to have accusing witnesses cross-examined.

Robert F. Kennedy, the committee counsel, said Cross will face questions about major accusations such as these:

1. That Cross and hired "goons" invaded the hotel room of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Ehrlich at the union's international convention in San Francisco last Oct. 21 and beat them both. Ehrlich, president of New York Bakers Local 60, had linked up with forces trying to oust Cross from leadership of the 100,000-member bakers and confectioners organization.

2. That Cross dipped into the union's treasury for thousands of dollars to finance a relationship with a convicted Los Angeles prostitute, Mrs. Kay Lower, and beat her when she gave another man a diamond ring bought with union funds.

3. That Cross "misused" large sums of union funds for personal purposes, as alleged by Curtis R. Sims, who was suspended as union secretary — treasurer after he publicly voiced the accusations that brought on the committee's inquiry. The suspension resolution accused Sims of making "unfounded" charges and bringing the union into disrepute.

Committee Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) said he was curious about what he said were some "highly

More Post Office Funds Submitted

WASHINGTON (UP)—A recommendation to give the Post Office Department 133 million dollars in extra funds for the fiscal year beginning July 1 is expected to reach the House Appropriations Committee on Friday.

A decision to approve the extra money, a reduction of 10 1/2 millions from the amount asked by Postmaster General Summerfield, reportedly was reached yesterday by a subcommittee.

One committee member said the reduction should not require any curtailment in postal service.

When Summerfield asked for the additional money he said there would have to be curtailments unless he got it.

questionable" expense account claims against the union. He said Cross and other officials collected on these alleged claims.

Joseph G. Kane, a Bakers Union local head from Elmont, N. Y., told the committee yesterday of the alleged beating of the Ehrlichs. Kane, president of Local 628, also swore he was beaten — but not severely — by Cross during the San Francisco convention while "goons" held his arms.

Stage Doesn't Appeal to One Actor

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — John Cassavetes doesn't think the stage is the greatest medium for an actor. He has a healthy respect for film actors and never attended the actor's studio.

The darkly handsome young New Yorker is one of the most sought of young performers. You may have seen him recently as the Scott Fitzgerald hero in "Winter Dreams" with Dana Wynter on Playhouse 90.

He's now making a movie, his first for major studio. It's a Western with Robert Taylor and Julie London, "Saddle the Wind," a Year of MGM.

He was schooled at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, along with Grace Kelly, John Ericson, Anne Bancroft and others.

He has never done a Broadway play. What's more, he doesn't want to. He says he doesn't like the stage. "It doesn't appeal to me," he says. "I suppose it's great to get the applause and the immediate reaction. But that isn't enough to compensate."

The same actors are used over and over on the stage. Most of the directors aren't very good. The stage methods are simply old-fashioned.

"It would be great to work with someone like Garson Kanin, who's a great director, or with Josh Logan or Elia Kazan or in a play by Arthur Miller. But how often do you get those opportunities?" John's reasoning came in TV, in which he has done "between 60 and 80" dramatic shows. TV, he says, has the best directors.

"I've had the best directors," he remarked. "They are young men with new ideas who know how to get things done in a hurry. TV is an actor's medium. Once you get on camera, you're on your own. If something unforeseen happens, you've got to handle it yourself. Nobody can help you."

Set Roberto Rode, in the U. S. Army Medical Corps, is married to a Belgian girl. Two of his children were born in Belgium, one in Germany, one in Michigan and the fifth one in Texas.

Time for TV Program for Miss McBride

By CHARLES MERGER
NEW YORK (AP) — It's time Mary Margaret McBride had her own regular interview program on network TV. She demonstrated this when Mike Wallace interviewed her Sunday night (ABC-TV).

After 20 years on radio she has been reluctant to switch to TV under its ground rules. But now Wallace, TV interviewing was highly glib.

For years Miss McBride has been saying she would like to do a straight interview program in which she and a subject simply talked face to face. "No!" cried the sharp young man of TV, in effect. "That's not television."

Then came Wallace with the same simple technique she has been advocating.

Miss McBride is a modest woman. Wallace tried to fathom her modesty. He succeeded in revealing her absolute candor. She demonstrated that she speaks lucidly and interestingly to a mature audience. She has a depth of emotional feeling rare in TV communication. So she is asked to do it.

"I didn't ask you," Cornell said drily, "because of the word you brought about Susan. I was told at our general meeting last week to give you the invitation. I had just put it off."

"I'm honored to be asked," he said aloud.

Next morning, Garde found the things piled on a chair in his office. The helmet and the coat felt. The boots were too small — he could have squeezed into them — but, he decided, he'd rather buy his own.

When he mentioned this purchase to Frank McKenna, that young man looked at him keenly. "Kurt's shoes must often pinch you," he decided.

"That's only to be expected. It's 17 Judging from the sort of chap he seems to have been."

Frank understood. Others may have; others sometimes mentioned the situation to him. Mabel Ross did on the morning she brought the twins in to see the doctor.

Mabel was an Englishwoman, king-size, plain spoken. She spoke in a husky voice which she laid to her constant smoking. She and her retired army-officer husband lived in a handsome modern home newly built upon a hundred acres of pastureland at the edge of Bayard.

The doctor had known that the Rosses had twins, but was surprised to discover, this morning, that they were very young — not yet quite two. He would have put Mabel down as being 50 — but perhaps not. She had the healthy skin of a horsewoman and was as casual about her hair and clothes as the wife with the children.

It was an active hour, and the doctor would take almost that much time to get things back into shape. The liquid soap dispenser was empty, the more active twin having found the foot pedal. Cotton pads had been thrown all over the place.

Her cards told that they'd last been in this office when they were six months old.

Dr. Shelton looked stern. "It's important for children to have frequent checkups. Mrs. Ross, he was being blunt. "It will be lightly," now or later, for you to be told that Howard is not developing as he should and may be even mentally retarded."

Yes, it was a shock. Which she took, then by anger. Finally she blurted, "I do wish Kurt were better!"

Garde wished so, too. "This was the sort of experience which took all enjoyment out of his profession," he better with children than I am?" he asked, because it would have been unbearable not to say something.

"Oh no! The children love you," he remembered how they swarmed all over you back in that other room? But Kurt — well, he sees more about with us mothers."

So would Garde, if he accepted the invitation. He wanted to accompany. The invitation pleased him immensely. It was also getting a little late for him to go. He was in the best first on the

THE SUBSTITUTE DOCTOR

THE STORY: Because he finds himself compared with Dr. Kurt "Ward," Dr. Garde Shelton is drawn into a study of the mysterious murder for which Kurt was convicted. Garde feels that he is a "substitute" for Kurt, even to the extent that people ask him about Kurt. Garde, Kurt's fiancée, to parties.

here were times, and literally, when Kurt's shoes pinched. One of those times began with a call out to Cornell's one morning.

"The patient was the younger of Dr. Cornell's two daughters. She had a little cold the day before, and had seemed to. This morning her temperature was elevated and her neck was pinched. The patient was in a panic. "One always thinks of polio!"

Garde went up to the little girl's bedroom examined the child and made a spinal tap.

He went on to the hospital and Allison Cornell followed him. He was in and out of Garde's office four times during the morning.

When the lab report came to him, Garde went over to Cornell's office and gave him the news. "Nothing," he said to the anxious father. "Absolutely nothing."

Corneil reached his hand for the phone.

"I've told Gene," Garde anticipated his move. "She says the temperature is down. It probably was a virus of some kind."

Dr. Cornell brushed his big hand across his face. "Thanks, Shelton," he said gruffly. "A man like me should be able to do better than I've done today — but one's own kid, you know."

"I have to imagine."

Corneil waited for him to say more; he did not. Then the doctor laughed and shook his head. "Would you care to join the volunteers?" he asked, dropping the prized invitation casually at Garde's feet.

"The fire department, you know. It's one of my pet projects. We have to protect the town and we can't finance a competent department; so we've spent our money on equipment and organized this volunteer system. . . . It was an efficient organization, too, as well as being a social prestige thing to its members. He then proudly displayed the little tag on their car bumpers, treasuring their privilege — and obligation — to attend the training meetings. They worked hard at such fires as occurred.

"I expect," Corneil was continuing, "that Kurt's gear is around somewhere. Flat boots slicker — some of us keep two outfits. One at home, one at work. I take mine around as religiously as I do my surgical kit."

So would Garde, if he accepted the invitation. He wanted to accompany. The invitation pleased him immensely. It was also getting a little late for him to go. He was in the best first on the

Time for TV Program for Miss McBride

By CHARLES MERGER
NEW YORK (AP) — It's time Mary Margaret McBride had her own regular interview program on network TV. She demonstrated this when Mike Wallace interviewed her Sunday night (ABC-TV).

After 20 years on radio she has been reluctant to switch to TV under its ground rules. But now Wallace, TV interviewing was highly glib.

For years Miss McBride has been saying she would like to do a straight interview program in which she and a subject simply talked face to face. "No!" cried the sharp young man of TV, in effect. "That's not television."

Then came Wallace with the same simple technique she has been advocating.

Miss McBride is a modest woman. Wallace tried to fathom her modesty. He succeeded in revealing her absolute candor. She demonstrated that she speaks lucidly and interestingly to a mature audience. She has a depth of emotional feeling rare in TV communication. So she is asked to do it.

"I didn't ask you," Cornell said drily, "because of the word you brought about Susan. I was told at our general meeting last week to give you the invitation. I had just put it off."

"I'm honored to be asked," he said aloud.

Next morning, Garde found the things piled on a chair in his office. The helmet and the coat felt. The boots were too small — he could have squeezed into them — but, he decided, he'd rather buy his own.

When he mentioned this purchase to Frank McKenna, that young man looked at him keenly. "Kurt's shoes must often pinch you," he decided.

"That's only to be expected. It's 17 Judging from the sort of chap he seems to have been."

Frank understood. Others may have; others sometimes mentioned the situation to him. Mabel Ross did on the morning she brought the twins in to see the doctor.

Mabel was an Englishwoman, king-size, plain spoken. She spoke in a husky voice which she laid to her constant smoking. She and her retired army-officer husband lived in a handsome modern home newly built upon a hundred acres of pastureland at the edge of Bayard.

The doctor had known that the Rosses had twins, but was surprised to discover, this morning, that they were very young — not yet quite two. He would have put Mabel down as being 50 — but perhaps not. He read a victory statement three times for the TV cameras when Robinson nodded. The state Troop said it was a victory not only for Girard but for American civilians as well as soldiers, and WASHINGTON (AP) — The tavern from today, Arthur Bonnier, 34, Union Vice President James R. Hoffa to trial on charges he conspired to plant bombs on the Senate Rackets Committee.

The cocky, dapper Hoffa's future in the Teamsters, largely hung on the outcome. Courtroom drama would and his labor power, but Bonnier would likely win in federal court.

The 34-year-old Hoffa was called to trial in U. S. District Court with a co-defendant, Hyman I. Fischel, Miami attorney and Bonnier's lawyer, said they conspired to keep working with Hoffa. Fight Against Reds Shaken by Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government, because of the Supreme Court decision overturning the conviction of 14 Communists — may have to drop its cases against other 45 already convicted, or attempt to try them again.

The court's decision Monday put a lame prosecution of Communists. They can still be prosecuted. But the government will have a tougher time. And one charge, used in almost all Communist trials, can't be used at all any more.

This is an explanation of what the court did and what the government faces:

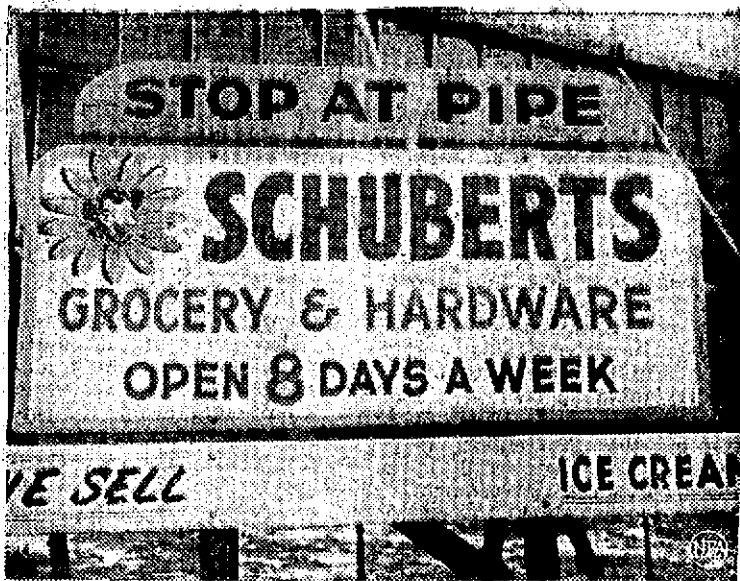

1. It's a crime to conspire to organize a party or group whose purpose is forcible overthrow of the government.

2. It's a crime to teach or advocate the forcible overthrow of the government.

3. It's a crime to be a party member, knowing its purpose is forcible overthrow of the government.

4. It's a crime to conspire to organize a party or group whose purpose is forcible overthrow of the government.

5. It's a crime to teach or advocate the forcible overthrow of the government.

PIPE THIS!—Eight days a week is correct, says Harold Schubert, owner of a hardware and grocery store in Pipe, Wis. Schubert, who boldly advertises his impossible schedule on nearby highway billboards, maintains that he works in his store more than 100 hours a week. That divides into more than 8 working days of 12 hours each, which he figures should be enough for any man. The signs have brought him some new customers and lured many curious tourists into visiting the tiny village, boasting a population of 52.

MIND'S EYE—Blindness didn't halt 26-year-old James W. Jennings Jr. from earning a B.S. in civil engineering at Michigan State University. The Norwalk, Conn. youth, blind since birth, went through with above-average grades and was elected to four national honorary societies. He is shown using his Braille slide rule and Braille typewriter to work some problems in higher mathematics.

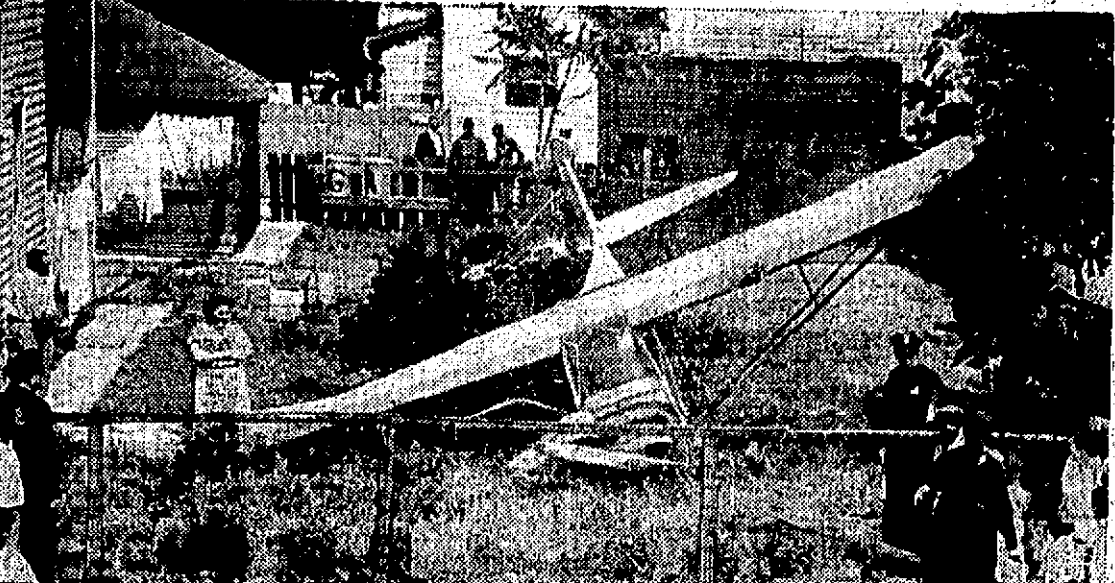

MINIATURE MILLINERY—Jane Blank, a freshman at Our Lady of Cincinnati College, has a unique hobby. She makes miniature hats for hard-boiled eggs. It all began several years ago when Jane decided she had had enough of bareheaded hard-boiled eggs. As the hobby expanded so did the models—her eggs are now the large plastic ones used to trick unsuspecting hens. Each egg stands on a paper collar, trimmed with a neck bow or net to match the touches on the hat. It takes Jane about three hours to whip up one of her Dache-like creations.

PENNY WISE—Mr. and Mrs. John C. Haugh could buy a lot of things if one still goes for a penny these days. The Miami, Fla. couple saved 100,000 cents, then banked the $1,000 with Joseph McLinton, left, president of the Dade Federal Savings and Loan Assn. The Haughs started saving pennies when they opened a restaurant. Rather than count and wrap them up each night, they threw them into gallon jugs. It took 14 years to acquire the $100,000 savings.

FLEET AFOOT—Rushing into action, this model flotilla steams to battle stations at Portsmouth, England, during a dress rehearsal for the pageant of naval gunnery. The "ships" seem to be easy to handle, except for an aircraft carrier (right, rear) which is a heavy load for two Tars.

CLOSE QUARTERS—Pilot James Dudziński received only a few scratches when he landed his light plane in this 30-by-50-foot back yard after developing engine trouble over Detroit. Only the nose and undercarriage of the plane were damaged. Dudziński, a 37-year-old World War II Air Force veteran, said the tiny yard was his second choice for a landing. His first choice, a playground, was crowded with children.

PROUD OF POP—Albert G. Smith's wife and nine children point with pride to "Pop" who will graduate this month from Fresno (Calif.) State College, climaxing an 11-year off-and-on collegiate career. Smith doggedly pursued an education to "set an example for our children."

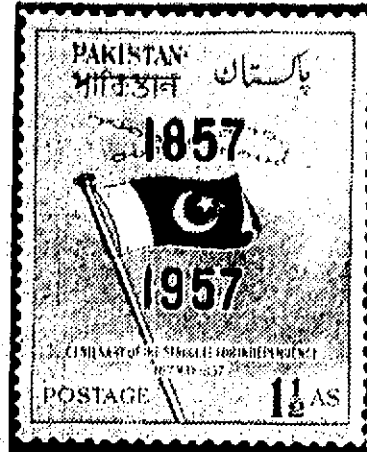

FORD'S NEWEST?—This candid photo, made at a Detroit area test track, shows a car reported to be the new 1958 Edsel to be manufactured by Ford Motor Co. The Edsel, scheduled for introduction in September 1957, will sell in the medium price field. It has been learned, unofficially, that the Edsel will come equipped with double headlights, a split front bumper and wrap-around grille. The center of the grille is oval shaped.

GRASSROOTS WEDDING PARTY—A hitch in the wedding schedule of Ellen Zimmerman, left, happened when her maid of honor lost the wedding ring on the lawn at the Zimmerman home in Medford, Mass. A borrowed ring saved the day. The bridegroom found the lost ring after the ceremony.

STAR STAMP—This striking design, featuring the North Star, has been named the winner of the Minnesota Statehood Centennial stamp competition. Designed by Paul Konslerie of St. Paul, Minn., the stamp will be issued during the weekend of Statehood Day in May, 1958.

INDEPENDENCE STAMP—Commemorating the centenary of the 1857 struggle for national independence, is this colorful dark green stamp issued by the Pakistan Post and Telegraph Department. It is one of two stamps issued to mark the event, the other being a stamp of higher denomination in blue.

TIGHT FIT—Shapely Delia Weddington tries one of Cuba's famous straw carryalls for size during a visit to Havana. She figures if the huge bag can hold her it can hold the numerous articles a woman carries.

CENTER OF STORM—The decision of the U.S. government to turn William S. Girard, 21, above, over to the Japanese for trial on manslaughter charges has stirred up a storm of protest in Congress. Girard, an Army Specialist 3/C from Otawa, Ill., is charged with killing a woman while on duty at a firing range in Japan.

HELEN'S PAL—Frying a steak is a fun and dumb school in Stockholm, Sweden. A student, Helen Pal, is obviously a little bit of a piggy. She decided to catch on her last. The piggy accompanied Miss Pal wherever she went during her visit to the school. But alas when Miss Pal decided to leave, the piggy, lacking a visa, had to be removed.

SIDEWALK EGGHEAD—This isn't Yul Brynner, but one of his admirers who's getting into the shaved-head act in Paris. The artist, Paul Durieux, copied the smooth look of his idol in the hope that it would bring him success. We don't know whether the shiny dome was the attraction, but he does have a pretty customer at his sidewalk stand.

GOP TRUMPETER—No better way for Republicans to trumpet their cause than with an elephant, especially one with six "horns" on his head. Pennsylvania State Chairman George Bloom takes a ride aboard the Republican symbol at Hershey, Pa. The elephant belongs to a circus.

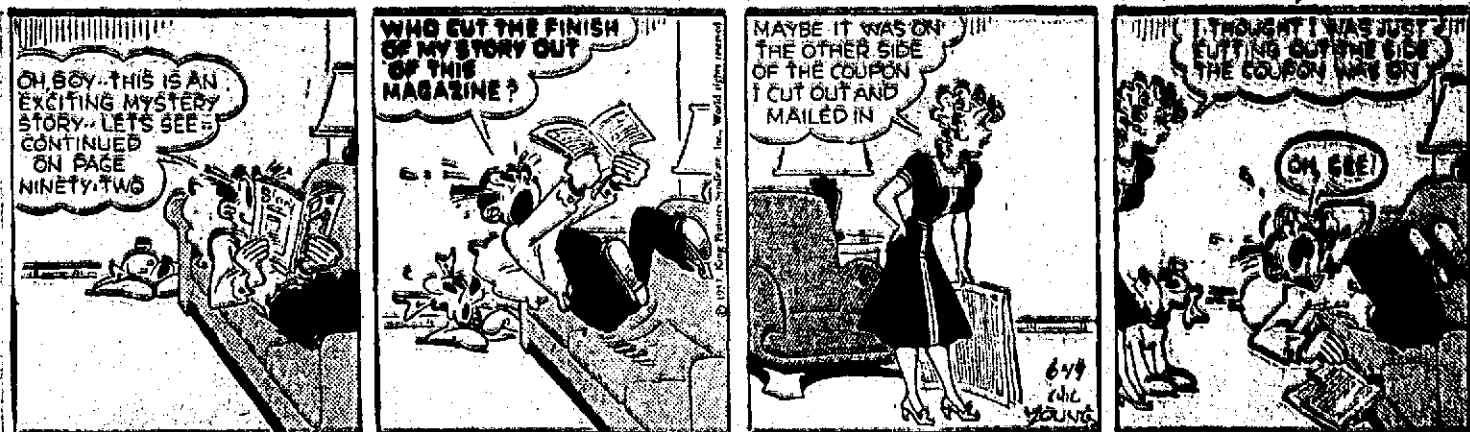

SAWED-OFF CLIFF—Sliced off neatly, this 25-foot piece of limestone coral topples to earth as worker at left stands clear in the 120-year-old quarry at Warwick, Bermuda. Though explosives, picks and shovels are normally associated with quarrying operations, the workers employed hand saws to cut the coral, used extensively in building on the island. This section, representing 27 hours of sawing, will be cut into smaller bricks.

WEAR THAT STEAK BONE!—Some folks see a pot of soup or food for the day in a bone, but Walter J. LaVoy, instructor in home art at Pennsylvania State University, sees a bone as a striking piece of jewelry. Steaks and other beef bones are best for this purpose because they are more solid, says LaVoy, who saws away at a steak bone, left, and displays the finished product, a pair of earrings, at right. A skilled and original jewelry designer, LaVoy transforms the bone after sawing it into the desired shape and design, the rib a little old ragment into it to give it the color of old ivory. His friends who wear his jewelry take great pleasure in sharing their friends by such remarks as "These earrings are from a T-bone steak."

Shantz's Great Comeback Keeps Yankees Alive

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

Bobby Shantz, the New York Yankees' 142-pound pitching giant owns an 8-1 record and 1.86 earned run average today that make him baseball's No. 1 candidate for "comeback of the year" honors.

Shantz, showing the same form that made him the American League's most valuable player in 1952, turned in his seventh straight victory last night when he beat the Detroit Tigers, 2-1, to move the Yankees within 2 1/2 games of the first-place Chicago White Sox. The White Sox suffered their sixth loss in 10 games when Billy Pierce walked over the winning run in a 2-1 defeat at the hands of the Baltimore Orioles.

Shantz slipped to only five victories in 1953 following his brilliant 24-7 1952 campaign and in the last three years scored a total of only eight wins - a figure he matched for a third of this season last night. The Yankees acquired him along with Art Ditmar in their big trade with Kansas City last winter and it may be that it will be remembered as the deal that won the pennant for the Yankees.

Bobby Richardson, the man who made Billy Martin expendable, delivered a sacrifice fly in the third inning and singled home the winning run in the fifth to help Billy Hoft's fourth defeat.

Pierce suffered his fourth loss against 10 wins when he walked Billy Gardner, Bob Nieman and Jim Busby in succession to give the Orioles their decisive run.

The Cleveland Indians shaded the Boston Red Sox, 7-6, and the Kansas City Athletics beat the Washington Senators, 2-0, in the other A.L. games. Chico Carrasquel, Vic Wertz, Rocky Colavito and Roger Maris homered for the Indians as Bob Lemon, in his first appearance since May 24, won his fourth game.

Ralph Terry, the ex-Yankee, pitched five hit ball for 8 2-3 innings for the Athletics and Virgil Trucks struck out Art Schult with the bases filled for the final out.

In the National League, the Brooklyn Dodgers dumped Cincinnati into fifth place with a 7-0 victory over the Redlegs; the New York Giants wiped the first-place Milwaukee Braves, 5-4, the Philadelphia Phillies downed the Chicago Cubs, 7-6, and the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 8-1.

Don Newcombe pitched a five-hitter and drove in two runs with a double and a homer as the Dodgers tagged the slumping Redlegs with their fourth straight loss and eighth in nine games. The Dodgers combed five Cincinnati pitchers for 13 hits as Newcombe flipped his third shutout for his sixth triumph.

Ray Crone shut out his ex-teammates for six innings to win his first game for the Giants who've won six of their last seven games. Daryl Spencer's two-run sixth-inning single was the decisive blow after an error by Bill Bruton paved the way for Warren Spahn's fourth loss.

Rookie Harry Anderson' grand slam and Rip Repulski's three-run homer provided the Phillies with all their runs as Jim Bearn picked up his first win with 4-13 innings of one-run relief pitching.

Bonus Pitcher Art Swanson pitched a four-hitter in his first big league start and was backed by a 12-hit Pittsburgh attack that included two homers by Bill Virdon.

Parnell May Retire From Baseball
By BOB HOOBING

BOSTON - Melvin Lloyd Parnell - the brittle Boston left-hander with a no-hitter and two 20-victory seasons to his credit - today awaited self-imposed retirement from baseball.

The best winning southpaw in Red Sox history, Parnell, 35, called the turn on himself yesterday in conference with general manager Joe Cronin. Mel has been told by a New Orleans doctor he would not be able to pitch this year.

Injured for the fourth straight season, the New Orleans resident asked Cronin to keep him on the disabled list until July 1 when he will have completed 10 years of major league competition.

At that time, he will ask to be put on the voluntary retired list operation. Parnell decided to end a career filled with ailments.

For one dazzling moment last year, Parnell realized every pitcher's dream when he beat Chicago 4-0 at Fenway Park for a no-hitter in which he allowed but two walks. It was the Red Sox' first no-hit game since Howard Eganke whipped Philadelphia in 1923.

Overall, Parnell's Red Sox career includes 123 triumphs, 75 losses, and a 3-50 earned run average.

Coupled with the recent trading of Billy Goodman to Baltimore, Parnell's departure leaves only Ted Williams from the Red Sox' old guard.

Typical Downtown Scene in Hope 47 Years Ago

Bankers Crack Builders' Long Win Streak

First National, which had been walloped by Hope Builders almost at will for the past two years, turned the tables last night to rack up a decisive 7 to 3 victory. The win was no fluke as the Builders never got closer than two runs.

It was the first defeat for the Builders in two seasons. Twice before the teams had met this season and First National lost both times. Ironically the victors didn't win a game last season but have already posted three wins against two losses this year.

Boyd Lee Henry was the winning hurler and Joe Embree the loser. In the first contest last night, Hope Basket shut out Hope Auto team by a 3-0 score. It was a good defense game by both teams and the Auto boys had their chances but failed to come through with timely hits.

Friday Games:
First National vs. Hope Auto
